At European level, EuroACE is a powerful network that enables discussions with important stakeholders to define energy efficiency policies, and support the vision of building that save resources and promote healthy living. At Armacell, we believe that EuroACE drives relevant sustainability topics. Its large reach and its members that pursue a common interest give the alliance a strong voice and a receiving recognition from policymakers.

Patrick MATHIEU, CEO, Armacell

At Johnson Controls, we believe that a building should be smart, healthy, and empower people within. No matter if it’s for homeowners, schools or office buildings, we have a range of products and services to make buildings smart in Europe and all over the globe. 2017 is a crucial year for energy efficiency policies in Europe and EuroACE helps us deliver key messages to policymakers and national and EU level.

Clay NESLER, Vice-President Global Energy & Sustainability, Johnson Controls

Philips Lighting leads the transition to bring better light to the world and to help provide a more sustainable future. We do this by delivering light which is energy efficient and saves resources. At EU level, EuroACE plays a critical role to support and translate our ambition into policymaking.

Bruno PEDROTTI, Head of European Public & Government Affairs, Philips Lighting

For Danfoss, EuroACE is not only an important voice in Brussels when it comes to energy efficiency in buildings, but also a useful platform to discuss with business partners across stakeholders and policymakers, the role of smart buildings in the energy system of tomorrow.

Niels CHRISTIANSEN, CEO, Danfoss (2007-2016)

At Knauf Insulation, we believe it is critical that those who want an energy efficient built environment make their voice heard loud and clear. EuroACE is an essential vehicle for us to make sure this happens at the EU level and beyond.

Tony ROBSON, CEO, Knauf Insulation (2003-2015)

We believe that with a forward-looking EU policy framework, a highly efficient and comfortable building stock is possible for all EU citizens. Building on synergies between all technologies and solutions, EuroACE is a unique alliance that works on making this vision a reality.

Céline CARRE, Head of European Public Affairs, Saint-Gobain